

Press Release

Ashkum, IL ProHarvest Seeds is proud to announce it has acquired the sales and marketing rights of Moews Seed Company, effective October 2, 2018. Moews Seed Company's main office has been in Granville, IL, since 1927. Moews Seed Company has a long and storied history, beginning with some of the early innovations and development of hybrid seed corn. Moews Seed has deep roots in the same values we promote at ProHarvest, such as family, integrity, quality and service.

The entire ProHarvest team is excited about this acquisition. ProHarvest will continue to provide Moews' customers with the products and value they have come to expect, with the added benefit of expanded choices not only in seed corn, but also soybeans, forages, wheat and cover crops.

At ProHarvest, our forward-thinking approach to the seed industry creates opportunities for us to grow. As an independent seed company based in Illinois, our goal is to provide our dealers and growers with one of the largest selections of seed products which include traits, genetics and seed treatments.

ProHarvest welcomes the following individuals to our sales staff. Trent Geistlinger from Beatrice, NE will be our Western Regional Manager. While Trent sells in his local district, his other team members include: Matt Retzlaff, Norfolk, NE; Derald Watson, Grand Island, NE; Craig Nepl, Estherville, IA; Jere Covington, Oxford, IA and Jim Dinan, Edgewood, IA. Four Seed Specialists from Illinois will also be joining the ProHarvest sales team including Ronn Dillavou, Aledo; Glenn Wilcoxon, Vermont; Carl Krieg, Centralia and Scott Grosenbach, Oglesby. Matthew Reichert from Maria Stein, Ohio will also be joining ProHarvest.

ProHarvest Seeds, Inc., is an independent seed company started in 2010 and owned by veteran seedsman Randy Wilken, Lynn Wilken, and Keith Knapp. ProHarvest strives to bring high performance products to its customers in 9 states with an easy-to-do-business with attitude.
